Yes, we can print inside the boxes. Whether you want to print the interior side of a shipping box, product box, or tuck-top box, we offer customizable printing options to meet your requirements and preferences. However, our brown Kraft boxes can stand tall among many. With the printing of just a simple and delicate logo, they are ready to set the stage on fire.

Our QC department is specially created to check the quality of our packaging boxes before shipping. So, there is the least chance of receiving any faulty/damaged product. But if it still happens, unfortunately, then we take responsibility to compensate you as maximum as possible. For this, you have to follow a proper procedure. Submit your complaints within 7 working days after receiving the order. Our team will contact you at your earliest convenience. Send us back the damaged quantity on your behalf and we will happily replace them.

Our standard lead time is around 7- 10 working days. This lead time lacks transit time which is approximately 1-7 business days depending on your location. However, for complexly designed boxes and at extremely busy times of the year, some orders may take extra days. Your delivery date is estimated at the time of your order placement. If your order is time-sensitive then select our rush production option. It normally takes 4-6 business days for production.

Yes, we offer box mock-ups before actual production. We considered it necessary to ensure you how the actual product will look like. It also serves to visually showcase and test packaging designs before production. Moreover, we can send you a physical sample at a minimal shipping cost so that you can assess and approve the final packaging design. However, we provide free samples in bulk quantities.

To print your boxes we use versatile printing methods. Printing can play a significant role in enhancing the overall appeal of your boxes. We hold expertise in digital printing, screen printing, and offset printing methods. Choose the one that better matches your preferences. Moreover, you can also go for embossing, de-bossing, metallic coating, or UV foil stamping for elevated aesthetics. If you are confused about selecting the appropriate printing method for your boxes, contact us. Our experts can help you mitigate your worries and assist you in selecting the most suitable option.

Choosing the right material for your custom boxes is a crucial decision because quality materials matter a lot in making your boxes sturdy and visually appealing. Start by understanding your own preferences and product requirements. Select from our wide range of available options such as cardboard, paperboard, Kraft paper, and many others. Our versatile and superior materials can assist you in achieving your desires and needs. Still, if you find it difficult, just contact our CSRs. They can provide you with assistance and make the selection process easy for you.

Yes, you can get your order done on an urgent basis. For this, you have to select the rush production option. It takes 4 to 6 days to deliver your orders to your doorstep. However, you have to pay slightly more to avail yourself of this opportunity. Our well-organized production rate and efficient shipping method make it possible to meet urgent order requirements, ensuring prompt delivery and a timely fulfillment process.

Yes, all our packaging boxes are composted because we craft them with sustainable materials such as cardboard, paperboard, or Kraft paper. Our focus on the use of compostable finishes or additives makes them environmentally friendly and conducive to composting practices. Incorporation of compostable elements into our packaging boxes is our initiative to minimize the environmental impact. So, our packaging boxes are the perfect choice for businesses seeking eco-friendly alternatives.

We are always looking to provide ease to our customers. For this, we ensure a smooth transaction process by offering a variety of convenient payment methods for packaging orders. Our accepted payment methods are usually based on online payment platforms. PayPal is our most common and frequently used payment method. To complete your order processing, it is recommended to deposit the mentioned amount through PayPal.

We offer a variety of prints on customized packaging. Whether you want minimalistic and classic prints or bold and sober patterns, we provide a diverse range of print and design options to cater to your specific and stylish preferences. With our high-quality prints, your customized packaging does not remain mere boxes to hold products; rather they become masterpieces that can hypnotize the sense of viewers.

Yes, you can get a sample of the printed box before placing a larger order. We know the significance of ensuring the quality and design to meet your expectations and requirements. Our priority to facilitate our clients as maximum as possible urges us to go the extra mile for their satisfaction. Therefore, we can discuss the possibility of providing a sample to help you make an informed decision.
